Thurgood Marshall Regional Park - Home of the Port Chicago 50

Located on the rolling grasslands of the Concord Hills and ancestral territory of the Chupcan Peoples, this new regional park aims to share stories of social injustice and bravery, connect community, and offer protected space for both nature and people to heal.

East Bay
Regional Park District

Honor the past. Protect the Future. Access for all.

A visitor center to feature local histories, including the 1944 Port Chicago Disaster that killed over 320 men, most of whom were Black sailors, the mutiny trial that ensued, and the fights for social justice and civil rights that led to the desegregation of the Navy.

3,000 acres of open space to connect Concord communities, made highly accessible with new public transit routes, public access points, and staging areas.

Protected habitats and wildlife corridors to support the many native species of the area.

Recreational opportunities, including camping, hiking, biking, and picnic areas.

Join us as we bring this untold local history to light.

The Regional Parks Foundation is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization supporting the development of East Bay Regional Parks. For more information, visit www.ebrpd.org.
